What's Inside

A new sculpture has been installed on Colorado Business Bank's south-facing marble wall in Downtown Littleton. The three-paneled iron piece is a community collage that was made possible by grant funds awarded by the City of Littleton. It visually connects the historic downtown area to the South Platte River and surrounding open spaces and trails. Citizens were encouraged to be part of the sculpture by donating iron objects. Kim Louise Glidden, owner of The Pottery Studio Gallery, designed the sculpture to be fabricated by local metal artist Steve Gastineau.

Littleton City Manager released from service

At its June 14 meeting, the Littleton City Council voted to release City Manager Michael Penny. Penny was appointed city manager October 3, 2011. The city council will discuss a process to fill the position at an upcoming meeting.

New website coming

The City of Littleton will launch a major upgrade to its website, littletongov.org this summer. The upgrade will feature a new, mobile-friendly design (below) which allows for easy, responsive viewing no matter what device is being used. It will also feature upgraded URLs and main navigation that places the most-viewed pages within a click or two of any page. Back-end enhancements include better image and document management, and iOS-friendly updating for staff editors. The upgrade will retain many popular features including the dynamic calendar system, the eConnect notification system, and the improved meeting videos and documents page.

Watch for announcements about the new site in the coming weeks.

Wayfinding signs installed in Downtown Littleton

It doesn't take more than a few steps into Downtown Littleton to notice some new fixtures in the area. The new north gateway sign has been up at Santa Fe and Prince since April 2016 and that sign marked the first of several installations downtown. Some of those new additions include wayfinding signs, historic markers and side street merchant signs.

The blades identifying the individual merchants may be installed following an amendment to the sign ordinance before city council. The proposed ordinance passed on first reading on June 7. The second reading will be on July 5. Future gateway improvements on the east and west ends of Main Street will also be considered.

Santa Fe improvement project should wrap up this month

Only about a week of work remains to finish the improvements along South Santa Fe Drive. The Colorado Department of Transportation has been working to repair the road between Crestline Avenue and Blakeland Drive.

For the past couple of months crews have been paving and rotomilling the 4.4-mile stretch of Santa Fe. In addition to paving, the project has included some minor signal improvements, ADA upgrades such as new pedestrian ramps, and seeding. As long as weather allows, all work is scheduled for completion in mid-July.

To lessen traffic disruptions, most work has been done overnight from 8 p.m. to 5:30 a.m. For more information call the hotline at 720-504-4048.

City council approves 90 day moratorium on land use applications in B-2 Zone District

The Littleton City Council adopted an emergency ordinance June 14 imposing a temporary, 90 day moratorium on the acceptance of land use applications in the B-2 Community Business Zone District. The moratorium will allow the staff to develop a workplan for a comprehensive update of B-2 zoning regulations

Littleton's zone districts were established in the 1970s. There are approximately 224 acres of land in the B-2 Community Business Zone District. According to the city code,

City staff working on 2017 Proposed Annual Budget

Littleton city staff are working on the city's 2017 Proposed Annual Budget. Last month the city's five-year financial projections were updated and presented to city council. Those projections will be a valuable tool in estimating 2017 resources for the city's major funds.

To begin the budget process, each department director submits a proposal, which will be discussed among all department directors this summer. The outcome will be an overall proposed budget, which will then be presented to city council and the public by August 31.

The city council study sessions to discuss the proposed budget are scheduled for September 19-20 and the final budget is expected to be presented for first reading October 4. A second reading and public hearing is scheduled for October 18. Those who would like to provide feedback for the budget can do so at the public hearing.

Grants awarded to improve popular areas

The City of Littleton was recently awarded more than $600,000 in grants from Arapahoe County Open Space. One will help improve accessibility to Hudson Gardens and the other will revitalize a school park.

The first grant, $400,000 for Hudson Gardens, will help improve user-friendliness between the gardens and the Mary Carter Greenway Trail. Right now the connection between Hudson Gardens and the trail is a popular gathering point, but despite the high usage of this area, few people cross from one side to the other. Trail users rarely visit Hudson Gardens and visitors from the garden rarely make their way to the trail. This new funding will help develop a way to integrate the trail with Hudson Gardens. The project is scheduled to be

The second grant, which is nearly $300,000, will improve a local elementary school park. Runyon Elementary School is in need of a new playground and this money will make that possible. Not only will the park serve as a community playground, but it will also be designed to accommodate children at the school with special needs. The playground renovation will address safety issues, while promoting children's physical health and creativity. Construction on the playground is expected to be finished mid-August of 2017.

Creekside Experience, a nature-themed park on the north side of Littleton, is now open. It is located along the South Platte River off of the Dry Creek Trail and the Mary Carter Greenway Trail. The park has a treehouse as well as a sand play area and creek access. At one point the property was a junkyard, so to acquire and redevelop it was a big success for the entire community. Time and time again parks are rated as one of the top things that Littleton residents enjoy. Ninety-two percent of residents rated parks and trails as excellent or good in the 2016 Resident Survey.

Reynolds Landing is an open space park along the South Platte River, just north of Breckenridge Brewery. The plan to improve this area has been in the works for several years, and construction began in March.

Once work is complete, there will be an additional trail head, close to 100 parking spaces and a new nature-themed playground. Along the Mary Carter Greenway Trail, many trail heads and parking areas are already at capacity. The work that is being done at Reynold's Landing will offer more accessibility to the trail.

All of the construction happening in the Reynolds Landing area is dependent on weather. While work is going on crews ask that trail users keep their speeds down and be aware of any workers near the trail.

Give input on canal's future

For the past month, the High Line Canal Conservancy has been working with the public to evaluate the importance of the High Line Canal and what it means to each community. In June there were three public meetings where people could share their thoughts and visions.

In July, the High Line Canal Conservancy will have three more public meetings to focus on the canal's future opportunities and challenges. For example, more than 80 percent of the water diverted to the canal seeps into the ground or evaporates before even reaching paying water customers. The High Line Canal is working with Denver Water and Sasaki Associates to develop a plan that will not only conserve resources but also revamp the outdoor

The 71-mile canal stretches across the Front Range, and has a different impact on every community it touches. That is why the High Line Canal Conservancy is inviting everyone to attend public meetings.

Meetings and planning will continue through October. For more details on public meetings or to learn more about the canal, visit highlinecanal.org.

This is a great opportunity to meet your neighbors and greet your city council members.

Dinner is on us, along with fun for the kids.

Xcel installing LED streetlights throughout Littleton

Notice something different about your street at night lately? Do things seem a little brighter? That's because Xcel Energy is installing LED streetlights along streets throughout Littleton.

Light Emitting Diode (LED) lights are more durable, long-lasting and more cost-effective than the previously-used High Pressure Sodium Vapor (HPSV) lights. LED fixtures use up to 60 percent less electricity than HPSV lights and have a longer life, resulting in fewer replacements, less maintenance and brighter streets. In pilot projects, LED streetlights have been linked to enhanced public safety because they deliver more visible light. Additionally, they provide an environmental advantage by using less energy. These new lights alone will help avoid almost one million pounds of CO2 emissions per month. That's the equivalent of removing more than 1,400 cars from the road.

Littleton is one of the first communities in the Denver-metro area to move forward with Xcel Energy's LED streetlight program. By the end of 2016, Xcel Energy expects to have replaced more than 15,000 lights, saving 48 communities more than $175,000 annually.

So if the streetlights look a little different, it's not your eyes playing tricks on you - it's Xcel Energy and Littleton decreasing energy use and saving money.

The Arapahoe County Mayors and Commissioners Youth Award (ACMCYA) recognizes youth who have overcome difficult situations in their lives by making positive changes and exhibiting strength in the face of adversity. The young people recognized have had a positive influence on others and have created positive change in their own lives. Congratulations to three ACMCYA nominees from Littleton Public Schools: Fabricia Pineda and Kirstyn Smith-LeCavalier from Heritage High School, and Nazario Caceres from Goddard Middle School.

City fills 10 dumpsters on spring Clean Up Day

In May, the City of Littleton hosted a Clean Up Day to help residents dispose of large household items and in a matter of hours, 10 dumpsters were filled. The city collected a little over 100,000 pounds of large household items, yard waste and metal recycling. Overall about 200 vehicles came to the event.

Mineral Avenue Station Area Master Plan continues

Progress continues on the Mineral Avenue Light Rail Station Area Master Plan (STAMP), the first of two plans for the areas surrounding the city's two light rail stations. The plan for the Mineral station will be completed this year; the Downtown Littleton STAMP will be done afterwards.

To address both community aspirations and market reality, the process for the two plans combines public engagement and professional expertise. The STAMPs will provide both short- and long-term recommendations. The goal for each plan will be to retain, grow and attract high-quality development, investment and new businesses near the light rail stations. In both cases, the study area will be the immediate station areas, which are owned by RTD and the areas adjacent to them.

The project team has conducted several important and well-attended meetings, with hundreds of participants offering input on the purpose and vision. Participants used key pad polling devices to share their preferences on building uses and types. The comments and voting results will be considered as the plan is drafted and reviewed.

The draft vision for the Mineral Avenue Light Rail STAMP has five key elements:

The River - Celebrate the major open space resource of South Platte Park by providing balanced pedestrian and bicycle access while preserving and protecting this unique regional resource.

The Train - Leverage the underlying real estate investment and asset of the RTD Park-n-Ride by encouraging high-quality, mixed-use development near light rail.

The Town Brand - Preserve and enhance the dynamic character and brand identity of Littleton while improving the city's competitive advantage within the region.

The Connections - Improve pedestrian, bicycle and vehicular access to and from the Park-n-Ride and light rail station while minimizing congestion.

Value Capture - Partner with adjacent land owners to create a special place that leverages the environmental qualities of the area with unique, Colorado-focused outdoor recreation, food and health and wellness business opportunities.

There is still plenty of time to get involved. A community meeting will be held July 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the Inn at Hudson Gardens. A draft plan based on community, staff and project team input is expected in August with a final plan to be presented to city council for consideration.

A new website devoted to planning processes in Littleton has been created where visitors can get updates, review documents and interact with the project team. Visit littletonplans.org for more information.

Come in We're OPEN

fab'rik offers "high style with heart"

For 18 months, a boutique in Aspen Grove has been doing more than inspiring fashion in young women. Since it opened, fab'rik clothing store has been a resource to help those in need, a place where young women are mentored and a business that believes in supporting and connecting with Littleton's community members.

In December 2014, Leslie Clay made the move to open the first fab'rik store outside of the southeast, right here in Littleton. Like any other boutique, fab'rik offers unique, trendy clothes, but Clay believes that fashion shouldn't come at a high price. Everything in the store is under $100.

Its motto is "high style with heart," which is where the store's non-profit, free fab'rik, comes into play. Through its non-profit, fab'rik offers free shopping sprees to women in need. In the past fab'rik has worked with an organization called Streets Hope to help victims of sex trafficking regain confidence. Volunteers took a pop-up boutique to Streets Hope and stylists then helped young women pick out new outfits.

For Clay, opening fab'rik was about more than just drawing in customers. The business owner says she wanted to create an environment where she could teach women to support other women. It was a goal she set not just with her customers, but within her staff as well. For more information about fab'rik or free fab'rik, visit fabrikstyle.com.

GraceFull Café in Downtown Littleton

A three-year journey in the making, GraceFull café opened its doors in Downtown Littleton on May 24. Owner Heather Greenwood has a background in business, but after teaching at Arapahoe High School for 12 years, she decided it was time for a change. Greenwood and her family moved to Uganda and did service work for a year. That year changed her life. After returning home, she wanted to give back to the community by using her love of food to connect people.

GraceFull Café is located inside a 1912 home and the fabrics and linens all reflect Greenwood's time in Uganda. The modern, yet comfortable décor gives the restaurant a homey feel. The café is open for breakfast and lunch and features a few healthy staple items, with at least one special menu item. The breakfast burritos and the lunch salad have proven to be some community favorites so far, along with GraceFull's coffee bar.

What sets Gracefull café apart from other businesses is that the restaurant offers meals for those who can't afford them through the GraceFull Foundation. Paying customers also have the option to leave a few extra dollars for their meal that will be donated directly to the foundation. Additionally, volunteer opportunities are available for anyone hoping to get involved. There are three positions available including front of house, food prep and cleaning. Those volunteers help keep prices low.
